

QUILTING ANGELS

I am always amazed at how much a small but mighty group of quilters can accomplish! The Quilting Angels met on Monday and sent me home with a trunk load of completed quilts and quilt tops, as well as donated batting pieces that I can use for prayer shawls! I love sewing and visiting with other enthusiastic quilters. There is joy in giving our time to make beautiful quilts to donate to those who need a little touch of warmth in their lives.

The Quilting Angels currently make only twin sized quilts and prayer shawls for donations. In our experience, these are the sizes most needed by charitable organizations. We currently are only accepting donations of batting and large yardage fabrics that can be used for backings. My sewing room is overflowing with fat quarters and scraps! Monetary donations are accepted as well. We have a jar by the register for donations.

We next meet on Monday, March 11, from 10:00 until we are ready to go, which is usually between 2:00-3:00. Anyone who knows how to piece quilts is welcome to join us. I have quilt kits cut out and ready to sew together. You can choose what you want to work on. Just bring your sewing machine and basic sewing supplies as well as a lunch. We welcome all newcomers with open arms.
